LAST MARKET - ‘till April 1, 2010

OCTOBER 29, 2009

4:00 P.M. – ‘TILL

Thursday, October 29th, 4:00 p.m. -6:30 p.m. will be the 2009 season ending market for the Evening Farmers Market at Pecan Park in historic downtown Statesville. Come and make an all natural pine cone bird feeder to hang in your trees or outside a window. All materials will be provided. This is great fun for children! There will be home-made suet’s at the market for sale to keep your winter bird friends well fed. Also pick up a list of vendors who will have their products available for sale after the market closes. The market will reopen on April 1, 2010.

Attendance at the Evening Farmers Market has been gratifying this year as many now put shopping at the Farmers Market Thursday afternoons on their weekly “to do” list. Shopping outdoors under the beautiful pecan trees in Pecan Park, buying locally grown food, supporting area farmers and meeting friends is the best shopping experience. Good health begins at home and it starts with serving healthy meals prepared from locally grown produce.

Fall crops are ripening now and there are many delicious locally grown items at the market now such as squash, sweet potatoes, goat cheese, eggs, baked good, herbs, handmade soaps, lotions, natural pet treats, and more. Vendors are happy to suggest ways to prepare fresh vegetables.

For more information call Carolyn Jordan at 704-873-7737 or Madge Eggena at 704-873-3361.

SEE YOU AT THE MARKET!
