

the Evening Farmers Market

at Pecan Park in historic downtown Statesville

THURSDAYS

April – October

4:00 – ‘till

HONEY NIGHT

AT THE MARKET

September 2, 2010

4:00 – 6:30 p.m.

September 2, 2010 beginning at 4:00 p.m. the Evening Farmers Market will celebrate National Honey Month in September by featuring honey at the September 2, 2010 market. Honey is one of nature's wonders and has never been duplicated in the laboratory. It has health and curative benefits plus many nutritional benefits making it superior to other sweeteners. The bees in 2009 produced very little honey in our area and we are thankful that this year has been a much better year for the bees and honey producers. Our beekeeper, Heath Ford will have jars of honey for sale and will answer questions about honey. Now is the time to stock up on honey for the winter. Come and sample recipes made using honey.

Available at the market now are peaches, apples, tomatoes, potatoes, squash, peppers, cucumbers, eggplant, herb plants, flowers, handmade soaps, homemade-baked goods, eggs, honey, a variety of crafts. Come shop outdoors and enjoy the entertainment!

For more information call Carolyn Jordan 704-873-7737 or Madge Eggena at 704-873-3361.

Vendors Welcome

SEE YOU AT THE MARKET!

The Evening Farmers Market is a non-profit group of area farmers, bakers, and crafters who present their products for sale for the convenience of early evening shopping at Pecan Park in historic downtown Statesville. Stop after work and enjoy a casual social setting, meet the vendors who are concerned with preserving farm family values.

